

City disappointed with State transport plan

The Mitchell Freeway needs to be extended to Romeo Road.

The state government's recently announced Perth transport plan has left the City of Wanneroo disappointed because the plan lacks clear delivery timeframes.

Mayor Tracey Roberts said that while the plan recognised the current transport problems experienced by residents in the northern suburbs - and the significant role the City of Wanneroo played in the state's economy - the lack of timeframes failed to provide certainty for the community.

"The plan is essentially a case of 'one step forward, two steps back' as it highlights that the State Government is out of touch with residents in Perth's northern corridor," Mayor Roberts said.

"We need the rail to Yanchep and the Mitchell Freeway extension to Romeo Road now. Our residents already suffer major traffic congestion issues due to the inefficiency of the current transport system and the lack of timeframes to address the problem is totally unacceptable.

"The City will continue to campaign on behalf of residents"

"The congestion worsens with every passing day and has a detrimental effect on our community's lifestyle as they spend more time commuting for work and less time with family and friends."

Mayor Roberts said that transport infrastructure would also help unlock the employment potential in the Wanneroo region, which remained Western Australia's largest growing area.

"The City's current population of 195,000 is expected to reach 300,000 by 2029 and increasing local employment opportunities will clearly benefit our residents and the wider region by supporting decongestion of roads and creating a better work life balance.

"As an example, the Neerabup Strategic Link will accelerate the development of Neerabup which is projected to employ more than 20,000 people".

The Perth Transport Plan is currently open for public comment and the City will formally respond before the closing date of 28 October 2016.

"I urge all our residents to review the plan and take the opportunity to provide their feedback."

"In the meantime the City will continue to campaign on behalf of residents for the early delivery of the Mitchell Freeway extension and rail to Yanchep."

Local art takes its place at Yanchep Lagoon

Mayor Tracey Roberts with local artist Karyn Nelson.

Residents and visitors to the Yanchep Foreshore now have a new place to take in the spectacular sight of the Lagoon with the completion of the lookout area.

A boat shaped shelter with tables and seating, a beach shower, drinking fountain and bicycle rails have all been installed, as well as custom made street furniture which incorporates the artwork of Two Rocks resident Karyn Nelson.

Mayor Tracey Roberts said

Ms Nelson's creative work won a highly commended award in the City's 2015 Art Awards, and contained many local elements such as Kangaroo Paws, Carnaby cockatoos, gumnuts, honey possums and the coastline.

"I love seeing art in our community," Mayor Roberts said.

"Featuring a local artist's work in this innovative way - being the backrest of the bench seat - is a wonderful addition to the area and a great way to showcase Karyn's talents."

Landscaping works along Brazier Road are now complete, as is the new beach access at the Fishermans Hollow beach access point.

The public amenities block at Fishermans Hollow is now being refurbished as part of the Yanchep Foreshore Upgrade.

"I love seeing art in our local community."
