Surf club construction resumes

There is welcome news for Yanchep residents with the building of the new Surf Life Saving Club scheduled to restart next week.

Newly appointed builder Bistel Construction was awarded the contract at a City Council meeting earlier this month.

The previous builder's contract was terminated late last year, following a substantial departure from the approved construction program without reasonable cause.

The building project at Yanchep Lagoon is expected to be finished by the end of October and will provide club rooms, public facilities and disability access ramps to the beach. The temporary beach stairs will stay in place during the construction period.

Parking bays to the north of the site will remain open to the public however there will be some temporary disruptions during lighting installation and landscaping. Another parking area will be built next to the new surf club.

The second-storey extension of the club building to create a community centre for use by local groups and residents is expected to be finished next month. Work on the parking area will continue through to June.

Construction of the highly-anticipated community facility continues swiftly with the two full size ovals scheduled to be ready by August and the sports pavilion expected to be completed by the end of the year. The ovals will cater for AFL, soccer, rugby, cricket and little athletics and will be a welcome addition for local communities.

City values volunteers

The extraordinary dedication and commitment of conservation and community services volunteers was acknowledged with a celebratory event this month.

Mayor Tracey Roberts said the City's community services volunteers work across a range of areas, from assisting elderly residents with essential errands, to providing social support in our adult day centres. Conservation volunteers look after our bushland and assist with revegetating the City's reserves and coastal areas.

"We are also very appreciative of our toy makers who create beautifully hand-crafted wooden toys for the Mayor's Christmas Appeal; our volunteer resource centre assistants; and the Justices of the Peace who provide a weekly signing service."

Congratulations to the volunteer excellence award recipients:

Yvonne Mahon - Keep Tapping Tidy

Yvonne takes pride in her local community, removing litter from Jimbub Swamp Park and her local bus stops.

Eric Byleveld - Community Transport

Eric has volunteered as a bus aide and bus driver. He is thoughtful, kind and always goes above and beyond.

John Beaton - Community Transport

John has driven the shopper bus for 18 months, picking up senior residents to help them buy their groceries. He is always offering to cover other drivers' shifts.
