The City of Wanneroo acknowledges the Traditional Custodians of the land we are working on, the Whadjuk people. We would like to pay respect to the Elders of the Noongar nation, past, present and future, who have walked and cared for the land and we acknowledge and respect their continuing culture and the contributions made to the life of this City and this region.

Clarkson Youth Hub reopens... feat. guest youth photographer Zone

Clarkson Youth Hub is back in business after a significant upgrade, offering valuable services and programs for young people living in Perth's northern suburbs.

The $1.6 million project includes a new games and activity area, function room, meeting rooms, a kitchen, accessible toilet facilities and office spaces.

Youth organisations and service providers are able to hire these spaces to deliver regular programs and services, as well as for one-off events and workshops.

The Hub's main entrance has been relocated to better connect with Clarkson's popular pump track and skate park.

The community flocked to the Hub's open day recent, with 16-year-old Clarkson photographer Zone capturing some great action shots (photographs pictured).

Attendees were able to check out the newly refurbished youth hub, enjoy plenty of live entertainment, and join in the skate jam!

The project was funded with $1 million from the Australian Government's Local Roads and Community Infrastructure Program, $500,000 through Lotterywest and a City contribution.

What's involved in the day-to-day of a Youth Program Officer?

Every day can look a little different, but we run safe and inclusive spaces for young people to hang out after school.

We run cooking, art, sport and recreation programs, pool and video game competitions and celebrate awareness days such as Reconciliation Week, Go Purple Day and Mental Health Week.

As youth workers, we not only get to provide a safe space for young people in the City, but also support them through their day-to-day life challenges, as well as celebrating their achievements.

As young people are all so different and have different needs, we have to be flexible and adaptable in our approach to support them on their own individual journeys. It's a real privilege and a very rewarding role!

What does the revamp of Clarkson Youth Hub mean for local young people?

We are very excited to have the Clarkson Youth Hub back up and running, as are our young people!

The redevelopment will mean more youth service providers will be able to work out of the Hub, providing even more specialised youth support closer to home.

We have a youth-led leadership project in the pipeline to give local young people more say on what they want from our programs, as well as providing a way for them to discuss things that are important to them.

Working with and consulting young people will help us identify how we can best support them to achieve their goals.

Local library LEGO® masters make clever creations Free

Back by popular demand, LEGO® Clubs have returned to the City's four libraries.

Putting their creativity and problem solving to the test, local children are making brick masterpieces in a series of weekly challenges.

With challenge themes ranging from animals and aliens to movies and Halloween, the builds then proudly sit on display in the library for a week.

Girrawheen resident Chris, who attends the Girrawheen Library LEGO Club with son Chris Jr, said the program was "fantastic".

"We've been coming for two terms now and it's been good for Chris, who has cerebral palsy – good for his fine motor skills," he said.

"At home, the kids play with mini figs, (miniature figurines) but this program allows them to be more creative."

Explore the history of iconic cities from around the world that have been built with more than 900,000 LEGO pieces or become the LEGO master of your household and build your very own future City.

The exhibition was created by one of the world's leading LEGO brick artists and the only LEGO Certified Professional in the southern hemisphere, Ryan 'Brickman' McNaught, who stars on Channel Nine's hit TV show LEGO Masters Australia.

Lighten up and be a good neighbour

During this festive season, many roads within the City receive large amounts of traffic due to residents' festive light displays.

The congestion usually occurs for a short period in the evenings just before Christmas.

The City encourages residents to inform neighbours of light display plans and be mindful of the times of operation. Lights should not impact pedestrians using the verge.

Visitors are also asked to be careful not to block or restrict access to driveways and footpaths.

Grassroots groundswell to save cute critters

Turtle Tracker volunteers look out for turtles.

Some 80 dedicated local volunteers have trained to become Turtle Trackers, working hard to keep snake-necked turtles and their eggs safe this nesting season.

The City joined forces with Murdoch University and the South West Metropolitan Alliance to participate in the Saving our Snake-necked Turtle Project, and providing specialised training alongside the City of Joondalup and the Department of Biodiversity, Conservation and Attractions.

Turtles live in wetlands across Yellagonga Regional Park and are under threat from other animals, lack of suitable nesting habitat and road strikes.

The Turtle Trackers have been monitoring their allocated sites for turtle activity during the nesting season, where they will protect the critters and their nests during this vulnerable life stage.

Friends of Yellagonga Acting Chairperson Guy Austin-Crowe put his hand up to be a Turtle Tracker.

"The volunteers are all local residents and we're working together to help the turtles survive," he said.

"If you can't be a tracker, you can also help out by recording turtle observations near wetlands by downloading the TurtleSAT app or using the website.

"By recording your observations, you are adding to the knowledge we have of the turtles which will help their conservation into the future."

Please remember to drive slowly around wetland areas, keep your dog on a leash, and report sick or injured turtles to the Wildcare Helpline on 9474 9055.

Creative ways to reduce, reuse and recycle

For Wanneroo resident Peter, Tamala Park Reuse Shop is a treasure trove full of potential.

He has given many pieces found at the shop a new lease on life, repairing broken tools and equipment, refurbishing old desks and drawers, even tinkering with a bowling ball to create a wall feature.

"It's good to reuse as it's great for the environment, reducing the amount of waste sent to landfill – it's also more affordable than buying brand new," he said. "You can also fix things up to gift to friends and family or sell and make a couple of bucks."

City of Wanneroo resident Peter at Tamala Park Reuse Shop.

With Christmas coming up, we encourage you to get creative and refurbish pieces for homemade gifts! You can also drop off unwanted items at Tamala Park, where these objects could become someone else's treasure.

Tamala Park Reuse Shop is open every day, 9am to 4pm. Second hand items can also be found at charity stores and as part of Buy Nothing programs.

Dordaak Kepap reaches exciting milestone

Dordaak Kepap Library and Youth Innovation Hub artist impression.

Detailed design on the Dordaak Kepap Library and Youth Innovation Hub is now complete, with the tender for construction underway.

The Landsdale facility will feature a library, function and meeting rooms, and youth innovation spaces including a STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts and Mathematics) room, gaming room, demonstration kitchen, podcasting room, a recording booth and studio.

City of Wanneroo Mayor Linda Aitken said the development would offer a fantastic service for the community.

"Dordaak Kepap is on track to offer a range of services, programs and activities for the community, including classic library elements and youth innovation and early childhood offerings," she said.

"We have received very positive feedback from local families and young people and are grateful to everyone who has taken the time to have their say on the project to make sure it meets our community's needs."

The City will receive a $3 million funding contribution under the State Government's WA Recovery Plan to enable the delivery of the Youth Innovation Hub.

State Member for Landsdale Margaret Quirk said she was pleased the State Government could contribute to the "wonderful" project. "The recognition by the City of Wanneroo for the need for improved community facilities in Landsdale is welcome," she said.

The library and youth innovation hub's name Dordaak Kepap, meaning place of living waters, was chosen through consultation with Noongar elders and community members to reflect the site overlooking Broadview Park.

Halesworth Pavilion starting to take shape

The state-of-the-art Halesworth Park complex is home to a wide range of sporting codes, from rugby, football and soccer to netball, baseball, cricket and athletics.

hardcourts, cricket nets, a dual-use path, children's play area and picnic facilities.

Completion is scheduled for mid-2024.

The City thanks the Federal Government, State Government, LWP Property Group and WA Department of Education for their contributions to this project.

City reveals site of Alkimos aquatic and recreation centre

The City has acquired a 3.5 hectare site in the Alkimos Town Centre for the Alkimos aquatic and recreation centre.

The City signed land acquisition documents with Development WA for the site, which is located just 50 metres from the future METRONET Alkimos train and bus stations.

Mayor Linda Aitken said the procurement of the site was a fantastic step forward for the project.

"It's great to have successfully secured a site that will ensure this facility integrates well with the surrounding environment and provides convenient access and connections to public transport," she said.

Alkimos aquatic and recreation centre concept image (concept only and final build may vary).

"The detailed design has recently started, and over the next 12 months we'll be able to share a comprehensive plan for the facility, which is being designed to be flexible, adaptable, and to accommodate the diverse needs of our growing community."

Once completed, the detailed design will provide a more accurate picture of project costs and timelines, with construction currently scheduled to start in late-2024.

"We are grateful to have received $30 million from the Federal Government, $10 million from the State Government and $12.6 million through the Alkimos-Eglinton Developer Contribution Plan to help us deliver this facility for our growing community," Mayor Aitken said.

City sponsorship at CORE of innovation

The City of Wanneroo has signed a sponsorship agreement with CORE Innovation Hub, putting Neerabup Industrial Area at the forefront of technological innovation in the State.

The partnership will support the activation of the Australian Automation and Robotics Precinct (AARP), a purpose-built facility for testing, research, development and training in automation, robotics systems and equipment, remote operations and net zero technologies.

Managed by the State Government through DevelopmentWA and operated by CORE Innovation Hub, the 51 hectare precinct now provides local, national, and global companies with access to one of the biggest testing and development facilities in the world.

City Economic Development Advisor Sarah Carracher said the City was committed to fostering the growth of future industries and ensuring a vibrant job market for its residents.

"It's exciting for our City to be home to this world-leading facility," she said. "The development of this precinct will support businesses of all sizes in the northern corridor and provide quality employment opportunities in a range of industries for residents of our City and wider Perth."

Construction is underway on a $7.3 million shared use facility, which will act as the AARP headquarters and include co-working areas, research and development spaces, laboratories, workshop facilities and showcase areas, slated for completion in 2024.

The state-of-the-art building will run on emission-free solar power connected to a battery and microgrid network.

"This isn't just a local or national achievement; it's a global milestone for our City and its businesses," Ms Carracher said.

"We're stepping onto an international stage, where we can showcase our innovation and expertise to the world."

Schools create community action projects

Sixty-nine students from seven local schools completed the City of Wanneroo's 2023 School Leadership Program.

The program provides a unique opportunity for young leaders to build confidence and learn about teamwork, resilience, problem solving, innovative project management and leadership skills by working on a community action project to address a need or issue in their community.

The City was proud to welcome students from Spring Hill, Landsdale, Alkimos, Our Lady of Mercy and Mindarie primary schools, as well as students from Atlantis Beach Baptist College and Wanneroo Secondary College.

The program culminated in a special showcase evening in September, an opportunity for students to share what they had learned and highlight their community action projects.

This year, conservation and the environment were popular themes and projects included the creation of a sensory garden, making food hampers from a vegetable garden, as well as donating money raised through collecting containers to charity.

Congratulations to all participating students – our future leaders.

Stay water safe this summer

As the weather heats up, it's important to keep safe at your local beach, pool and at home.

Water safety should be a priority for everyone visiting one of our beautiful local beaches or using pools this summer.

The City has recently reinstalled the Quinns Beach Swimming Enclosure, to provide peace of mind to beachgoers.

The City's dedicated Swimming Pool Inspectors conduct inspections of private properties with pools to ensure compliant and effective safety barriers are in place.

Unsafe and unsupervised backyard swimming pools and spas are the most common location for children drowning in Australia.

Poorly maintained fencing, propped-open gates and lack of self-latching gates all jeopardise pool safety and the City advises residents to be vigilant and check pool barriers regularly.

Water safety tips:

- Supervise children in pools and spas at all times
- Learn swimming and lifesaving skills
- Wear a life jacket when boating, rock fishing or paddling
- Swim at patrolled beaches between the red and yellow flags
- Always read safety signs
- If you need help, stay calm and attract attention
- Avoid alcohol and drugs around water

Beach wheelchair free to hire

A beach wheelchair is free to hire at Quinns Beach, available now until April!

The City is proud to support beach accessibility through its Beach Wheelchair Program which enables people with mobility difficulties to access our beautiful coastline.
