I'm a long-time resident, dad of three, active community volunteer, and software engineer passionate about building a thriving, community-first City of Wanneroo.

As Chair of the Somerly Primary School Board, I know how important it is for families and residents to feel supported and listened to. In my career I design systems that are accessible to all, not just the tech-savvy, and I bring that same mindset to council: practical, inclusive and transparent.

I believe residents' voices must be present in every decision, and I'll push the City to improve its processes so that the community is genuinely engaged. My vision is for the City to be an enabler of community, supporting residents, small businesses and local groups to thrive.

I'll hold the City to account to ensure your rates deliver on the basics, while also prioritising sensible coastal protection, updating ageing infrastructure in older suburbs, and pushing developers to provide accessible public spaces and community facilities.
