

Additional Information

I am proud to call Wanneroo home and have a long family connection to the area, my parents bought our family home here over 30 years ago. I have built my career and dedicated much of my life to serving the community. I understand the importance of creating a city that is safe, inclusive, and full of opportunity, a place where families, businesses, and individuals can thrive together.

My professional journey has been grounded in education, childcare, and business development. I have established and managed childcare services, supported local businesses, and developed mentoring programs that empower people to grow in confidence and capability. I also run my own Pty Ltd since 2011, leading initiatives that focus on sustainability, inclusivity, and community wellbeing, values I believe must guide the City of Wanneroo into the future.

Service has always been close to my heart. I have volunteered on school boards and P&C committees, contributed to positive behaviour programs, and supported events that strengthen community spirit. These experiences deepened my belief in collaboration and the importance of listening to diverse voices when making decisions that affect us all.

I was a Mrs Australia International finalist, using the platform to raise awareness of domestic violence and to share the message that everyone deserves the chance to overcome challenges and let their inner sparkle shine. As a radio presenter, I built business connections, strengthened networks, and amplified community voices through media platforms.

If elected Councillor, I will prioritise open communication, responsible decision-making, and initiatives that support families, small businesses, and community safety. Together, we can ensure Wanneroo continues to be a city that celebrates opportunity, fosters inclusivity, and truly reflects the spirit of its people.
